A CONNECTION BETWEEN YOU AND THE AURORA

ArctaPHOS began when a unique marine microorganism – pseudoalteromonas was discovered 2,700m beneath the ocean near Greenland, during an Arctic expedition under the Northern Lights. A bacterial strain, pseudoalteromonas was discovered to have anti-aging properties to restore skin's hydration, diminish wrinkles and improve complexion. It also works wonders in protecting the skin from blue light (digital pollution), UV rays (harmful sun emissions) and other environmental pollutants, all which prematurely age your skin.
